- The workshop reflected on JPIC—justice, peace and the integrity of creation—as part of the educational mission. Participants reflected on how schools can accompany young people in forming them in values, instilling in them good character, empathy, social responsibility and to make responsible choices.

The Journey Continues…

The final stage of the workshop focused on evaluation and celebration - reviewing actions, learning from experience, recognizing, contributing and strengthening what would make a meaningful difference. The gathering affirmed the value of continuing the journey together through responsible action and youth formation.

Spirit filled and committed teachers form young leaders and responsible citizens who in turn care for the society and the environment, and make this world beautiful.
